

Being able to discuss different types of linguistic patterns and how different contexts are used has been one of the most important parts of my literacy journey. Throughout this semester and more specifically throughout the second major assignment, I've been able to discuss how different types of artifacts can impact different cultures and different groups of people. For example, in the second major assignment, I discussed the impact a certain genre of music has impacted me and my literacy journey by describing a song that falls under that genre. I also tied the song to a certain group of people who also appreciate similar songs and the same genre of music. Even though I've had the same love of songs like these well before this semester even started, I didn't realize just how much they've impacted my literacy journey. In the end, it's very important for someone to look back on their literacy journey and remember the artifacts and events that shaped who they are as a writer.
